"If yesterday's business was flat to-day's has been fatter, and in general unprodubleness unsatisfactory to small speculators and to commission brokers alike. The leaders of speculation are keeping aloof from the market and are apparently as reluctant to listen to the allurements of future ventures as was St. Anthony There being, therefore, no incentive to activity, prices remained dull and steady from first to last. Exception may, however, be made to the first few minutes after the opening, during which a precipitate decline oc-curred, strongly marked in Lake Shore, Central and Hadson and Western Union, and more moderately in the Western and granger stocks. Thus Lake Shore fell from 70% to 69%; Western Union from 81% to 80%, and Central and Hudson from 107% to 106%. sudden and important a decline was at first a mysery, but was quickly attributed to Mr. Vanderbilt's letter in which he disclaims any speculative interest in these stocks. It has been popularly supposed that Mr. Vanderbits had been lending his wealth and infinace to a speculative support of the securities identiled with his name, and his disclaimer of any such lusame and prices fell likewise. After the early precipi-tation in quotations the market remained dull and steady for the rest of the day, fluctuations being limited to about one-half per cent and the amount of business growing correspondingly small. Illinois Central, which was forced into the position of a sbuttlecock between the speculative battledoors of the London and New York markets, rose and fell as the impact ras less or greater from each, and took a lower standpoint toward the end, though nobody seems to know the real cause of its violent fluctuations. Points given out yesterday, favoring a rise in Delaware and Lackaanna, attracted sufficient buyers to advance the stock

The saics of mining shares in New York, as officially day, or at least to keep it steady in the face of a rather weak market. The grangers weakened toward the close for no particular reason except that speculators were few and indifferent. In final dealings the tone
